
CONTENTS

Figures, Tables, and Exhibits	vii
Foreword by Steven B. Cohen	xi
Preface	xv
The Authors	xxi
1 Thinking About Topics for Health Surveys	1
2 Matching the Survey Design to Survey Objectives	27
3 Defining and Clarifying the Survey Variables	48
4 Thinking Through the Relationships Between Variables	81
5 Choosing the Methods of Data Collection	100
6 Deciding Who Will Be in the Sample	124
7 Deciding How Many Will Be in the Sample	154
8 General Principles for Formulating Questions	194
9 Formulating Questions About Health	221
10 Formulating Questions About Demographics and Behavior	245

11	Formulating Questions About Knowledge and Attitudes	268
12	Guidelines for Formatting the Questionnaire	288
13	Monitoring and Carrying Out the Survey	311
14	Preparing the Data for Analysis	340
15	Planning and Implementing the Analysis of the Data	360
16	Writing the Research Report	391
	Resource A: Personal Interview Survey: UNICEF Multiple Indicator Cluster Survey (MICS-2)—End-Decade Study	405
	Resource B: Telephone Interview Survey: California Health Interview Survey (CHIS)—2001	407
	Resource C: Mail Questionnaire Survey: National Dental Malpractice Survey	408
	Resource D: Selected Sources on Health Surveys	433
	Resource E: Selected Examples of Health Surveys	442
	References	451
	Name Index	495
	Subject Index	505